GOSSIP OF THE RACETRACK

ROSEBEN AGAIN SHOWS THAT HE CANNOT GO A MILE.

Dave Johnson Loses $10,000 in Spite of Previous Experiences, but He Gets It All Back on Confederate-Watercolor Goes to the Breeding Bureau.

Once again it has been clearly demonstrated that Roseben cannot go a mile. Dave John 300 lost $10,000 yesterday in trying to find shis out Roseben started in the Equality this distance and with the comgeratively light weight of 115 pounds John on thought that the "Big Train" could not Roseben opened at 8 to 5, but went up 2 before his plunging owner began Then Johnson placed the wager named above, while others, who followed suit, backed the crack sprinter down to 2 to 1. For seven furlongs Roseben ran like a world beater, but after that he stopped so quickly that First Premium would have beaten him for third money in a few more strides. Roseben was in receipt of fourteen pounds by the scale from the three-year-old Frank Gill, the winner, and six from the three-year Charles Edward, who took the place. Jack McGinnis, who owns Gill, placed $500 on the colt to w in at 20 to 1, thereby cleaning up $10,000 on the victory. Charles Edward was well backed across the boards.

There were three added starters, First Premium, James R. Keene's Suffrage and Boots Durnell's Faust. As Faust's remarkable race in the Suburban, when he led for a mile and a furlong, was recalled he was well played three ways. John W. Gates stood to pocket a package, but Faust this time finished absolutely last. Suffrage, Kentucky Beau and Tony Faust were also in much demand, the ring winning a large amount on the result. The race was worth about $5,000 to the winner. It was run for the first time in 1902, with these winners: Dublin, Highlander, Goldsmith, Dolly Spanker and Hamburg Belle (twice).

Practically all of the plungers backed Notasulga in the Rosebuds. She opened at 13 to 20 but was beaten down to 3 to 5. John W. Gates, however, lost a heavy commission on the Keene filly Megg's Hill, which went up to 4. Notasulga so far is the best of the two-year-old fillies. Several of the rich owners have been trying to buy her, but Albert Hamel has refused all offers. The filly has won about $12,000 in stakes on the local tracks, but unfortunately she has very few valuable engagements. She conceded five pounds to each of her rivals yesterday and won in a romp. After the race Mountain, who rode Half Sovereign in August Belmont's colors, went before the stewards and stated that Notasulga had fouled his mount at the start. As it all happened in the fog the stewards asked all of the other ockeys, the starter and the patrol judge for facts, with the result that the stories were so different it was impossible to make s ruling. Jane Swift, who ran second in Bob Tucker's colors, is a filly by Handspring-Phantom Belle. Previous winners of the Rosebuds were Onondaga's Pride, Affect, Glennellie, Leonora Loring, Astarita, Hamburg Belle, Belle Sauvage, Running Water and Clare Russell.

John W. Gates cashed a big bet on Cairngorm, which was backed from 13 to 10 to 11 to 10 n the first race. The French mare Ginette started for the first time this year in this event. She opened at 3 to 2, but went up to 17 to 10, the Rainey commission going on at moment. Ginette was just a short: She ran a game race, and with a little more work she will be hard to beat. A remarkable feature of this event was the fact that the three starters finished as they were numbered on the programme, also as they took their position at the post and as they were fancied in the betting. The Gates bundle was cut up in the second race, the bulk of it going on Orphan Lad, the 7 to 5 favorite, while the balance was placed on Herodotus to show. Charles G. Gates had $5,000 on Herodotus third at even money. Riffeman, the winner, was backed three ways, his price dropping from 20 to 15. Herodotus, who finished in the place, was owered from 6 to 4, while Troublemaker was reduced from 25 to 15 and was taken across the boards. Masaniello burned up a lot of smart money, as he ruled second choice at 18 to 5. Shreve, who rode Rifleman, is a youngster who did some very good work in the saddle at Hot Springs and other Western tracks. But as few had a line on him those who really liked his mount stayed off.

Confederate was the medium for a killing in the fifth race. In California this colt ran some remarkable races, but when he started here for the first time the other day he could not raise a gallop. But the checks were down yesterday, and from 15 to 1 his price tumbled to 7. Jack Martin had the leg up and Dave Johnson took a whack at the good thing and got back some of the bunch he dropped on Roseben. Plunger Ellison backed Lancastrian place and show, winning all of $15,000. Banker was also much in demand three ways. There was a generous play on old Buttling at 8 to 2. The Keene colt Cabochon was taken by the public, meanwhile, although he went up to 13 to 10. Cabochon, a three-year-old, was asked to give scale weight to everything in the race. The task seemed to be too much for him, while it was also probable that he did not care for the going.

The crafty Madden provided the favorite in the last race in Meelick, a colt by Planude lithyia, who was steadily backed at 13 to 5. But Meelick was lost in the fog. Live Wire, the winner, was backed from 10 to 8 and the ring got a jolt, but the money lost on Meelick made this race a winner for the ring. Fred Burlew's Thurbet was supposed to be the real article. Burlew said that he would come home on the bit. This information was imparted to the Gates combination and enough money was bet on Thurbet to force his price from 10 down to 4. There was another hot tip on G. J. Long's Sir Cleges. colt by Falsetto-Florika, who it was said had worked half a mile in batter than 47 seconds. He was heavily taken both ways. Mr. Keene's Restigouche, who ran second, unbacked, at long odds, is a gelding by Commando-Dancing Water.

The gossips in the betting ring were busy discussing a dispute between R. F. Carman and Bookmaker George Boles over a wager made by the former on his colt. Acrobat, who won last Friday. It appears that Carman sent a commission of $7,000 to Boles to be placed on Acrobat to win. It is underthat Carman received word from Boles he bet was on at 5 to 1. After the race, owever, Carman learned, it is said, that 4 a result Carman made a protest to Boles and was still in abeyance yesterday, but he adjusted to-day. In case Boles ake his argument good Carman will be just 87,000 out—something of an item in these hard picking.

HORSES RACE IN DENSE FOG. Frank Gill, 18 to 1, Captures Equality Stakes-Notasuiga Wins Rosebu

A dense fog that rolled in from the sea marred the racing at Sheepshead Bay yester-day afternoon. After the first race had been run it was impossible to see any of the races until the horses reached the middle of the homestretch As a result the crowd, which numbered close to fifteen thousand persons, placed wagers in the ring and then as the horses disappeared in the gray gloom on their way to the post the spectators sat patiently in the grand stand or walked about on the lawn waiting for the finish. The start of the straightsway events was made known by ringing an electric bell in the judges' stand. By this means it was possible to get some sort of time for the Rosebuds, won by Notasulga, but as it was mere guesswork this method was soon passed up. Altogether the sport from a speculative standpoint was rather unsatisfactory, as four favorites were beaten, while the crowd remained in ignorance as to the exact reasons for their downfall. Frank Gill, 15 to 1, who ran a great race for over a mile in the Suburban Handicap, was victorious in the Equality Stakes, at a mile. Roseben, with only 115 pounds and a 2 to 1 favorite, made the pace for about seven furlongs as usual and then stopped. Frank Gill closed with a rush at that point and took the race by a length and a half from Charles Edward, 4 to 1, with Roseben half a length away.

Notasulga, 3 to 5 favorite, ran off with the Rosebuds, for two-year-olds fillies, five furlongs. She led at all stages and breezed home two lengths before Jane Swift, 8 to 1. Half Sovereign, 8 to 1, was the same distance back, with James R. Keene's Megg's Hill, 4 to 1, badly beaten. Mountain, who rode back, with James R. Keene's Megg's Hill, 4 to 1, badly besten. Mountain, who rode Half Sovereign, made a protest of foul against the winner, but it was not allowed. The time was 1:00 3-5.

R. A. Rainey's Ginette, 17 to 10, after making most of the pace in the first race, at six and a half furlongs, was overhauled at the last furlong pole by Sydney Paget's Cairngorm, 11 to 10 favorite, who beat her a head in 1:19 2-5.
Sister Frances, 8 to 2, was a poor third.

F. A. Forsythe's Rifteman, backed from 20 to 12, got up in time to win the second race, for platers, at a mile, by a neck from Herodotus, 4 to 1, who was tiring rapidly,
but managed to beat Troublemaker, 15 to 1,
by four lengths. Orphan Lad, 7 to 5 favorite, struggled home three lengths behind.

Confederate, backed from 16 down to 7,
rolled home in the fifth event, a handicap
at a mile and three-sixteenths, on the turf, winning by three lengths. Lancastrian, 7 to 1, had a mortgage on the place, with Banker, 6 to 1, third. James R. Keene's Cabochon, 13 to 10 favorite, evidently could not extend himself on the grass.

W. W. Dardem's Live Wire, backed from 10 to 8, came home alone in the last race,
for maiden two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs. James R. Keene's Restigouche, a 12 to 1 shot, took the place from G. J. Long's Sir Cleges, 4 to 1, by a head. The summaries:

The Pennsylvania and Wisconsin men came very near being swamped in the afternoon. They had just left their boathouses, when a a tug, big enough for ocean work, came down the river full tilt, casting a swell large enough to swamp almost anything in the line of a boat. Ellis Ward had the launch whistle going and Rice of Columbia got out with a megaphone to get the captain of the tug to slow down, which he did not do. Several of the boats came back heavy with water. The Syracuse crews did light work through the day, their hard training being over, too. The Georgetown men did paddling work, as Coach Russell had finished with them.

Much to the disappointment of some of the substitutes there will be no gentlemen's crew races to-morrow. An attempt was made to get on a second eights, as the midshipmen have no four. The Cornell eight, composed of three varsity men and five freshmen was in a state of mutiny because the varsity men refused to pull in a race with the freshmen. The Columbia crew could not enter because Rice did not want his men to crow the race, so that fell through. The Pennsylvania men could not get a four oared crew to meet Cornell, so that a race between these gentlemen's crews was called off.

The Navy people expect that they will have at least three distinguished visitors for the races here. Admiral Goodrich, Admiral Evans and Victor H. Metcalf, Secretary of the Navy, are expected to be here. The monitors Nevada, Arkansas and Florida are expected here to-morrow.

BOSTON, June 24.—New York took revenge on Boston for Saturday's slaughter this afternoon, handing out a double defeat. The visitors had their batting clothes on and hammered the sphere all over the lot, but they had rather a close call in the first game, getting away with it because of the inability of Knight to hit the ball on several occasions
where the bases were full.

The second contest allowed the New York aggregation to show how they could hit, and they piled up eleven runs and could have made it more but for the tired feelings which overcame them toward the close.

During the afternoon the visitors hit safely
thirty-one times, for a total of forty-six,
all of the six pitchers tried by Boston looking alike to them. Boston, during the same period, made twenty hits, Unglaub being the only one to get extra bases on a slam. New York used four pitchers in the opening game,
but Kitson twirled excellently in the second,
holding the locals down to nine safeties,
while his companions got seventeen off
Harris, Glaze and Jacobson.

Elberfeld had a regular old home week
at the bat, getting three safe ones in each game. Conroy was there with five bingles, including a double, two triples and a home run. Williams got three hits, including a homer and a triple. The first game was replete with errors, some of them of the schoolboy character. Altogether in that contest
New York made six errors, Knight being the only offender for his side. In the second Chase fell down once on an easy toss, while Ferris scored three misplays for Boston and Knight added one more to his total of black marks.

New York appeared to have the first game

The Columbia not the second instalment of the day's work until nearly 7:30 o'clock. "The hard work is all over now," said Coach Rice this afternoon. He had another visitor in E. J. Kerns from Worcester, who knows all the rowing coaches.

Wiscon-in's varsity crew did rather a surprising thing this morning in taking a time row over the course. It was generally supposed that about everything had been done by the crew coaches. The Wisconsin freshmen beat the varsity a half length in the first two miles. The 1910 men from Madison are considered to be a very likely crew for the freshman race, while the varsity is not so much considered. Ed Ten Evck NEW YORK REW TORK.

The 1910 men from Madison are considered to be a very likely crew for the freshman race, while the varsity is not so much considered. Ed Ten Eyck said that the varsity crew got along pretty well. His men swing back rather far and they get their legs straightened out before their hands come through. The freshmen set their boat up better and look to be much the finer crew.

The Cornell crew is growing in favor every hour with those who are following rowing. The Ithacans are getting more impressive with every row they take and the chances are that they will be prohibitive favorites in the coming varisty race. The Cornellians have improved so much over the crew which was rowing here previous to June 17 that they cannot be recognized as anything like the same college combination. Taking two men out of the boat was regarded as a risky experiment, but from the moment that this change was accomplished the improvement was remarkable.

Those who have been saying all along that the race was between Syracuse and the Navy now are fain to let another crew into those calculations. The positive statements by Coach Courtney that his crew was bound to be a contender are so different in tenor from what he said when his men first came here, that all the persons who follow the crews have made keen investigation of the capabilities of his men.

The Navy crew, by the way rowed in momentary that he seen very much annoyed by what has been said about the style of his men, and this morning when they came down by the Columbia boathouse they were counted several times to be doing 22 strokes to the minute. This was a hoticeable change from the 36 plus stroke pf other days. However, as it was only a paddle it may not be a significant change. Capit. Ingram says that the crew will average about 34 to the minute in the race on Wednesday, except for the last half mile, when the pace is likely to be accelerated. Some persons take this to mean that the Navy is not going to try and row Rickey, Conroy. Two base hit—Conroy. BOSTONS DEFEAT NEW YORKS

LOOSE PITCHING, LOOSE FIELD-ING, MUCH SCORING.

Three Players Silenced and Set Down by the Umpire-Bucker's Good Pitching Serves Brooklyns Well-Cubs Beat St. Louis-Reds Batter the Pittsburgs.

Playing poorly against the Bostons yes-terday the New York Nationals were beaten, but they lost no ground so far as second place s concerned, as the Brooklyns beat the Philadelphias for the third straight time. Three first division teams were beaten. The third was the Pittsburgs, whom the Cincinnatis battered. The Cubs did the usual thing. They pushed the Cardinals a little further down. BOSTON (N. L. 1, 10; NEW YORK (N. L. 1, 8. A concection of loose, lax baseball was played at the Polo Grounds yesterday, the New Yorks again lining up against the Bostons and the pair again going in for scoring on an extensive scale. The Bostons scored in six innings out of nine and won the game in the eighth. The lead changed hands five times, so well developed on each side was the scoring habit. Runs were cheap as a matter of fact, for there was pretty stiff batting, seedy fielding and poor pitching.

Much of the aforesaid looseness had to do with the pitching. Batsmen were being hit or passed every few minutes and there was a share of wild pitches. That was one trouble with the New Yorks. They made costly misplays. They were not as steady in the pluches as the Bostons. The latter was the more resourceful team of the two.

All hands were prone to err, including Um pire Klem. Klem called a Bostonian safe at first in the fifth inning when he was thrown out a yard. Sammy Strang, holding down the grass in centre field, tossed his cap up in the air and was bounced forthwith by Klem. Not long after that Brown of Boston was exited for kicking on a strike, and in the same irritable inning Brain did a vocalizing speialty that reached Klem's ear and caused Brain to receive his congé.

Bridwell and Brain made the circuit in the first inning on a base on balls to the former. Tenny's sacrifice, Brain's single and two wild pitches. The New Yorks at once evened up on two bases on balls and hits by Devlin and Hannifan. Brown scored for Boston in the second on Hannifan's failure to stand on first to take Devlin's throw, a fielder's choice, and two bases on balls. Ritchey, who had doubled, was out at the plate on the fielder's choice, which was a timidly executed squeeze. The New Yorks went ahead in their half effective second on two bases on balls, Shannon's hit and a muff and wild throw by Brown. Brown's errors were made while the New Yorks were negotiating double steals.

They were all square at the end of the third, the Bostons making a run on hits by Burke and Bridwell, a base on balls to Ritchey and a hit batsman. Dahlen sauntered in the fourth and Bowerman and Browne jarred Dorner for doughty drives. Dahlen and Bowerman scored, but Shannon, who reached first on Bridwell's fumble, was collared at the plate on Bate's good return of Browne's and two bases on balls. Ritchey, who had the plate on Bates's good return of Browne's whack. In their half of the fourth the Bos-tons had rocked Ferguson for three hits and whack. In their half of the fourth the Bostons had rocked Ferguson for three hits and one run.

The determined Doves were more successful with the squeeze in the fifth. Ritchey walked. Brown hit to Dahlen and Corcoran muffed Dahlen's assist of Brown's force. Dorner bunted toward right. Hannifan could not get hold of the ball and Corcoran was equally helpless, Ritchey tallying. With Bridwell up the squeeze was sprung, Brown scoring on Brid's roller to Devlin. Solid hitting ground out two runs for the New Yorks in the seventh. Browne, Hannifan and Dahlen landed lustily on the leather.

Bill Sweeney tossed a single to right in the eighth. He stole second and flitted home on Bates's single to centre. Burke was the second out, but Ritchey put Bates on third with a hit to left. When Ritchey broke for second Bowerman drew Bates off third with a feint to throw to second, but Bowerman made a bad throw to third. Bates came in on the error and Ritchey rushed through on Shannon's poor backing up.

The New Yorks died hard. With two out in the ninth Devlin hit safely. Shay hit hard to Ritchey, who fumbled. No man can make good as a pinch hitter all the time, and as Young let out a link the most Hannifan could do was to cut jagged holes in the air. The score:

BROOKLYN, 2; PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 1.

BROOKLYN, 2: PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 1.

Cayenne and ginger are part and parcel of the Brooklyn's playing these days and they helped the Donovan dandies efface the Quakers again yesterday. It was a close game and a well played one, the Phillies being a trifle more assertive with the stick and a shade more finished in the field, but not quite as clever in the greater essential of run getting. Rucker was fine when men were on bases. The only run made by the Phillies originated in a muff by Batch of Courtney's liner. Doolin fetched Courtney home with a hit to centre.

The Brooklyns did not get a batter within hailing distance of first base in the first three innings, but a hit came to light in the fourth. Casey bumped a safety over short. The Doc scuttled to third on Lumley's hit. On Batch's out, Doolin to Courtney, the Doc came home. The last run of the game—and the deciding one—was made in the sixth inning. Rucker lammed safely to centre. Alperman advanced him a peg with a duplicate single and Dr. Casey sacrificed. Lumley's fly to Titus was far enough out to enable Rucker to surge home. The score:
